

the Pall Mall Gazette thus summarises the principal provisions of the Reform bill.

every household in every borough, the level may only cost him eighteen pence, and his rates may be only eight pence a year, can, if he will not pay this, be put into the next borough, unless every lord who occupies a manor or copyhold has the power to raise rates to the clear yearly value of £10, or to sell himself upon the register.

In the counties every forty shilling freeholder, every 20 copyholder, every holder of twenty acres, and every village or hamlet, provided they are not £2 or upwards, will in future be added to the franchise.

A number of small boroughs are partially enfranchised, a number of new ones are being created, and some large and populous counties are to have additional franchises.

The counties are to be to a considerable extent gutted of their urban element, both by the creation of new boroughs and by the abolition of the boundaries of old ones.

own representation and the rural representation, each with its peculiar and exclusive characteristics somewhat exaggerated, were brought too far in clearer antithesis to each other. The borough members will outnumber the county members in the proportion of 18 to 8, and of the 750,000 borough electors, 500,000 will belong to the working class and about 300,000 to all other classes put together.

THE HEALTH OF THE QUEEN

When, a fortnight since, we stated that the good grounds for making public the conditions which prevented her Majesty from appearing at evening crowded assemblies, our statement was accepted by the vast majority of the press and the public as the true one. There have however been some exceptions. There have been some who would have been glad to have been severely worse of nothing, but who writers assumed that they were more and therefore assumed to impugn the accuracy of our statement.

graph which appeared in the London Times upon a subject of so much delicacy we wish with what we believe to have been a better informed and justifiable reserve. Our report was a plain statement of the facts, and we are glad to hear that the Queen's Majesty and the Court have received it with the acceptance to which we felt bound to submit. The appearance of the Queen in public on a recent occasion was followed by the most disastrous attack of sickness and depression, which lasted for several hours. The life of the Court is necessarily kept in the most strictest secrecy in immediate attendance upon the Queen, and it is impossible for us to arrive at a correct knowledge of the Queen's real condition. The privacy of the Sovereign should be as much respected as that of the humblest of her subjects. On rare occasions, however, on which that privacy may be held too sacred. This is more especially the case when erroneous reports her general credence. And it is to be known that her Majesty, with the desire to fulfil those duties which appertain to her dignity or her position, is occasionally prevented from performing them by the daily suffering of a character most difficult to describe.—The Lancet.

A SHODDY PARTY.

A New York hatter earned a varied living at the business. His wife was a seamstress for a fashionable tailor very well, and the industry added much to the comfort of the household. By one of those sudden fortune which sometimes overtake the prudent, he found himself in possession of a considerable amount of money. He abandoned the hating, and his wife gave up the sewing, and both began making money by the sale of shoddy in the neighborhood. His wife prospered, and he prospered, and they were taken into good society, by giving parties. The hating and tailoring as occupations were to be ignored. They had

As. Had these people understood the meaning of doing things in New York they would have gone to Brown, of Graco Church, paid handsome fee, and be would have been their partners with all the company of the city. Instead of 506 names, among whom were of the most prominent, and sent out invitations right and left for an evening man, expense was spared to make the occasion great one; the house was gaudily furnished, the ladies, mother and daughter, fashionably attired. The table was laid by one of the caterers. Doodworth was engaged to furnish music. Walters were engaged to furnish dancing. Black and white were invited, but not so the guests. The two are the New Yorkers more intimate about the acquaintances they make at parties they attend. They would not be there are worth for a ticket to a ball, or reception, or for a love where great

THE COTTON CROP IN THE SOUTH.—A despatch from Louisville has the following interesting facts:—
 "Advices from the lower river parishes of Louisiana and several counties of Mississippi, in reference to the cotton crop, are unfavorable. In all the lower parishes of Louisiana the worms are at work to a alarming extent. At point Coupee the destruction was so complete and thorough that the plantations were abandoned. Another statement says that from the Texas River to the Gulf of Mexico no cotton has been plucky accounted are received; not only the plantations are suffering, but the people to-day are looking for the visit of the morrow."

THINK OF IT.

Here is honest talk from a Conservative paper. There is more truth than poetry in it. It tells the truth, the whole truth, and nothing else. It says something worth thinking over by every true Conservative in the country:

WHAT ENDANGERS THE UNION.—It is true that the Confederate Union is in danger. But not from Howe or Lancet, or Sandfield, or any of its avowed enemies. Our ship of State is running fast upon a rock, but the pilots are straining their eyes in another direction. The truth is that the Union is still in danger from extravagance and corruption. Already a fear grips the very veins of society that the promiscuous plundering of the country is going to press down the people with a fearful burden of taxation. Go where you will, in the city or through the country, the same undefined dread of tax-paths is felt by all. The people on Dominion day rejoiced over the accomplishment of Confederation. But when the bonfires were all burnt down, and the last rocket sent up, and the last fire cracker popped off, a prescience of coming dangers seemed to have settled upon the public mind. The country has had enough of coalitions. That of 1854 doubled the debt of the Province in four or five years. Give us a Coalition, and a railway to build, and we will show you a country rushing to bankruptcy and ruin as fast as reckless managers can drive it."—Ottawa Daily News.

ONE WHITE SPOT.

Among the many political conflicts the people of this district have been engaged in of late, there is but one white spot to which we can point—H. D. Smith, Esq., of Merivickville, has been returned for North Leeds and Grenville. Mr. Smith has come thro several elections, but heretofore always retired as the beaten candidate. At the present election the tables have been turned, and he has gained a seat in the Assembly of Ontario, by the handsome majority of 214 over his opponent, Ogile R. Gowan. This, we trust, will put an end to the aspirations of Mr. Ogile R. Gowan. This gentleman, in defiance of the opposition of the great majority of the electors in the riding, persisted in forcing himself on their attention. He has now received his desert, and we trust this is the last we will hear him in this district. Let him stick to the taverns of Toronto in future. It is a more congenial occupation to him than that of a legislator for the Province of Ontario. We congratulate Mrs Smith on his success. — Recorder.

Wrecks were started, and the ditch by the roadside was filled with the wreckage of the overturned stage. The driver, who was killed, was dragging the other stage down the ditch by the side of them. There was a full load of passengers, several of whom those outside contrived to jump off without sustaining any injuries. Some of these inside also managed to get out in safety, but all did not time to do so, and amongst them were Mr. R. M. Smith and his wife and child. It is supposed that, as first, when they were extricated from the overturned vehicle, that no one had room to get out, and that the driver, who was killed, was in his mother's arms, was crying. It was the first thought that occurred to him, and not from its being hurt; but that it continued to cry until its death, which occurred some time after the accident.

On the same day, while the Hastings Road mail stage was on the way from Thanet to Margate, the neck-yoke between the stage was discovered to be broken, and about three miles north of Broad Oak, the stage was thrown overboard, and broken into three pieces. The driver, who was striking the horses' heels, they with fright and dashed off. The driver, Hugh Cameron, having one passenger female—on board, used every exertion to save her, and was thrown overboard, rushing with fearful control, but the stage fell, struck against a log, and overturned, the concussion breaking seats to pieces, and otherwise damaging the stage, and throwing out the passengers. The driver was severely injured and the female passenger was killed. The damage having been done, as possible under the circumstances, the stage arrived at its destination about 10 hours after its usual time.—Mercury.

ACCIDENT AT THE LONG SAND RAPIDS.

THREE GRAIN BARGES SWIFT OFF—$70,000.

On Monday's afternoon accident occurred at Hickory Point, a landing, which is likely to fall heavily upon the Commercial Company. At this point the current sweeps rapidly to the shore, and past the Caves, and with such force as to compel steamers carrying barges in tow to "snub" at the Wharf, and their bows to swing around and trip into the rocks. On Monday afternoon, the tug, Albatross, of Captain Brown, the tow-line broke, allowing three barges to be carried away. (The tow-line was broken by the tugboat's bow.)

The amount of damage sustained last night by the steamer Winnipeg, which was wrecked off the Long Sault Rapids. It has been possible to ascertain their exact position from the statement of damage sustained last night by crews of the ship. The difficulty of reaching them at the present time, makes it certain that the loss will be heavy. The following are the parties so far of the owners, consignees, etc., who have been notified:

The Unity, Chaffey & Co., 100 bushels, owner unknown; The Argo, G. Ford & Jones, and The Law, same outfit freighted together with about 21,000 bushels of grain, consigned to J. A. McDonald, Montreal. The cargoes of cargoes amounts to about $70,000, American currency, and is held by West Cornships, either at Milwaukee or Chicago.

The removal of the fitted cash boxes in which the money was lying in the safe were found in a few short distance from the store, cleared of their contents. The pass-key to Mr. W. THE FEMININE CONGRESS AT CLEVELAND.

THE STRENGTH OF THE REFORMATION.

Some further details respecting the Feminine Congress at Cleveland have leaked out in the last papers. Roberts was elected President, but refused to act unless the Congress would raise $500,000 for the cause. Only half that amount was pledged, and after much persuasion, Roberts consented to accept the position. General Spear, acting Secretary of War, reported that the whole force of the Fenian Brigade numbered about 1,300 enlisted men, with about 15,000 rifles, 16,500 cartridges, 120,000 rounds of ammunition, in addition, there were 100 rifles along the border from St. Albans to Oswego, in the hands of private parties. At Saginaw Harbor about 2,000 stand of arms, and at Point St. Charles, about 1,200, at Oswego 119 rifles—in all about 2,000. In addition to this force the Stephens was claimed to have 15,000 stand of arms, 15,000 rifles, and a large lot of ammunition, and a vessel in New York harbor. It further leaked out that the heads of the Irish Brigade were worth $20 cents on the dollar, and that a resolution of respect to the memory of Thomas Francis Meagher was put on the meeting. A "heated discussion" ensued, applause and hisses greeting every repetition of his name. The resolution was at last declared carried, and loud vociferous dissent. We are not therefore surprised to learn that "throughout the proceedings were stormy," and several times there was danger of "breaking up in a general row." The question whether women should be admitted to circles was indignantly answered in the negative "because of their inability to keep a secret,"—a weakness the "congressmen" are more than suspected of themselves. How, for instance, did the whole of the "proceedings" leak out.
